“ Robert was a very nice man, a kind man and a polite man. After my divorce he called me from time to time. He also visited with me at a ball game, at Monroe Houglum's funeral, and he was at Jennie Zaviska's funeral and he gave me a hug, (which I appreciated), once in front of the school and the grocery store. We never "went out" as such but enjoyed the times we did meet each other and talk about old times and new. My sympathy to his family. "May he be in heaven before the devil even knows he is gone"
